

Statement of purpose:

I was just creating a site that is fun and a place to put my past present and current projects and showcase them. I would like to ultimately get a job working as a front end web developer. Using SASS taught me more about specificity that I would like to know. I learned a lot about JavaScript and jQuery and working with the DOM. jQuery was really fun to use and made it easier to traverse the DOM. I used jQuery on my main page to check for mouseover, mouseleave, mousedown, and mouseup for my flicker effect. I'm not really satisfied with how everything turned out but a portfolio of my work and who I am should always be a work in progress.
